Adobe Creative Cloud Subscription

First, I would like to thank the Miller Arts Scholars for the generous minigrant that funded my subscription to the Adobe Creative Cloud. The subscription has allowed me to improve my digital photography and photo editing skills immensely. As a Studio Art major who is concentrating in both printmaking and photography, access to the Adobe Creative Cloud is imperative for improving my art. I took a digital photography class this past semester in which I learned how to use Lightroom, Photoshop, and InDesign, which are all included in the Adobe Creative Cloud Subscription. Now, I can continue using these apps to edit my photographs. I will be able to use the photos for printmaking as well, such as in photo transfer lithography. My budget stayed the same as the original proposal, with the first year of Photoshop costing $20 per month, and the second year costing $30 per month, for a total of $600 for two years. The $500 awarded from this minigrant is going towards this cost, with $100 from my own pocket.
